

Why you should try self-education

Unlike the education system, which is now accepted in schools and Universities in Russia, these courses are much specialized, so enjoy a certain demand and success. Of course, it is difficult to imagine in the Internet course on computing machines, for example in which part do my college essay for me of information is devoted to psychology or sociology. But in Universities all is OK.

I think students don't want to fully learn for this reason. By choosing the specialty he entered the first year, at which he continues to teach General subjects. It is still possible to perceive normally, if your specialty is humanitarian, but if you purely technical? Programmer or technician? It is absolutely not interested in the science and law which he must pass during first and second year. And by the third year, when I started profile subjects, he has developed a strong aversion to learning and the habit of doing everything at the last moment, just to pass; and not in order to gain knowledge. This is, unfortunately, the norm today.

These students not finding where to put your head in the University go into the network.

Which as I have already written most of the information of entertaining character. And there he sat for days on social networks, or looks fun. Some play online games for a few years! By the way most of them are quite complex and require the player to a long study and getting used to the game system. This young man enjoys a complex and interesting challenge in a beautiful wrapper, and completely forget about uninteresting and boring curriculum.

People who really have gained qualitative knowledge in their profession are people who have studied the subjects themselves. They just realized that the UNIVERSITY does not give necessary and is subject to obsolete rules and maintains the old system, which doesn't work in the modern world.

If it worked, the country would not be so many unemployed graduates, and each would the employer not mentioned in the requirements for the applicant required experience 1-3 years. Where such demands? Why don't experienced graduates nobody wants? Everything is simple; because they have no knowledge that can be applied in practice. They have all the knowledge in the theoretical best case, which shattered on the harsh reality.

Self-study courses for professionals gives a much more practical use and real-world skills than conventional education. Strange, but accountants is not taught in Universities, how to use the program 1C: Accounting; which is the absolute leader on the Russian market of accounting. With other professions about the same. It turns out study to study, for the crust, which then serves as a good stand under a mug of coffee.
